JANESVILLE, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 24

JOSEPH COOK ON THE "REVOLUTIONARY RULES."

Joseph Cook who is said to have "one of the largest and best filled heads" of any man in this country, in one of his celebrated lectures to his Boston Monday lecture, spoke of the new rules the republican congress has adopted. It was a sharp rebuke—a fine campaign document—a document good enough for anybody and everybody to read and profit from in any year or any part of a year when it is necessary that the truth should be preached. One of the paragraphs of the preface is this:

All the authority of the speaker comes from the House, and that of the House comes from the people. We have on this continent no slave and no king. I do not fear that the government of the people, for the people and by the people, is to be a government of the people by the speaker and for the speaker. But it is important that the speaker should be governed by a set of rules that the people understand and approve and will support. When a rule of procedure is proposed we ought to examine the proposed reform as we should a proposed constitutional amendment.

Mr. Cook then gives the five new rules in synoptical form as are as follows: What are the rules proposed? First—Members must vote unless they have a pecuniary interest in the question at issue. Second—The dignity of the house and the rights of members are given precedence over every question except a motion to adjourn. Third—One hundred shall constitute a quorum in the committee of the whole house. Fourth—Members present, but not voting, may be counted as a part of the quorum. Fifth—No dilatory motion shall be entertained by the speaker.

The great debate was on the fourth and fifth rule, and because of these two rules, Speaker Reid was charged with being a tyrant, and the republican majority "abed with iron hoofs and riding mercilessly over an unprotected minority." Mr. Cook says the new republican code is "revolutionary" but right, and then he says that it is a self-contradiction that of men may be present for obstruction and absent for business. He then points out the fact the code which seeks to simplify business and despatch it when it is necessary to be done, has the authority of high courts, of legislatures, of parliament, and of the constitution of the United States.

On another point in the new code, Mr. Cook spoke in tones that should be carried all over this land, for it touches one of the very greatest political crimes of this age. He said, "The new rule immensely facilitates business. What is the great matter at stake in this debate? Contested election cases. Twenty-seven districts in the south send representatives to congress in which it is notorious that there is no majority of democratic votes; these twenty-seven congressional seats twenty-seven northern representatives. Congress will not be down for over under this gigantic fraud. Now is the time to weed out fraudulent representatives when the republican party has a majority in both houses as well as the president. Southerners have threatened to dead-lock congress for a year, and under the new rules dilatory motions will not be entertained."

In speaking of the great question of frauds in the south Mr. Cook said something that should strike the ear of every American no matter to what party he belongs. He said: "In sixteen states of this Union more than 40 per cent of the population over ten years of age can not read nor write. But in some places more blacks than whites can read and write. Southern ruffians, by whom I do not mean the southern people, for there is a new south and an enlightened south look hands with northern city slimes in leaping from the negro's back into the political saddle."

Another point on the treason of the south: What I fear in the southern problem is the black belt of states from the mouth of the Potomac to the mouth of the Mississippi. The republican party lags behind the people, and behind its own pledges. There are eight commonwealths in which the blacks are largely disfranchised. It is said that nothing can be done; that prejudice against color can be dispelled only by time. When Mr. Grady, the southern orator, made his speech before a Boston audience recently, he said that the south will find means to qualify the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, even if you should fill every southern city with soldiers. Boston cheered that speech, but Boston ought not to cheer treason. Nothing but good blood in this matter is now in its grave, but its principles are not in their grave. The slaves of today are those who cheer such treasonable sentiments as those expressed in Mr. Grady's speech.

Mr. Cook's plan is to adopt the plan of national supervision of national elections in the south so that unblushing frauds may no longer dishonor the country. But any attempts to make the southern elections as fair as they are in the north, will be counted tyrannical and revolutionary by the southern people, and in this they will have the sympathy of the democrats in the north.

LET THE LAW STAND.

There is an effort being made in Iowa to work up a sentiment against the prohibition law in that state so that its practical repeal may be effected. There are some judges who claim that the law cannot be enforced, and therefore should be either amended or repealed. Judge Waterman, of the Davenport circuit, gives this argument against prohibition and for high license:

As to the prohibition liquor law (so-called), in relation to which general inquiry has been made, I need say but little, for the condition of things in this district is well known. Our people are in general as patriotic and law-abiding as any in the state, but in this matter strong adverse public sentiment presents a serious obstacle to the law's enforcement. In one county, in the district where an extensive and long-continued effort has been made to enforce the law, general crimes are more numerous and criminal expenses are greater than in any other two counties in the district, while in the (South) county the percent of general crime and of criminal expenses is lower than in any county of equal population in the state. These are facts. I do not pretend to account for them; though I may add, in order to avoid being misunderstood, that no general deduction can be drawn from the facts drawn from them. My belief is, that a local option law, which would give to communities such as this the power to impose a high license under proper restrictions, would be preferable to the present statute.

This is a weak argument. No backward step was ever known to carry any great movement forward. The very moment the legislature of Iowa begins to tinker the present law, break it here, and weaken it there, that moment the temperance law of the state becomes wrecked, and there will be an endless and a partisan fight over high license and local option.

The position of Senator Allison, on the present temperance law, which has been printed in the Gazette, is the proper one to take. If the prohibitory law will not suppress the liquor traffic, then local option in one place and high license in another place, will never be effective. What the people of Iowa should stand up for is an enforcement of law. There can't be any more effective measure in the suppression of the liquor traffic than prohibition, and if this should fail, nothing else will succeed. If there was no prohibitory law, then the matter would stand differently, and high license, or local option, with very restrictive laws, similar to the Pennsylvania law, would be better; but now that prohibition is written in the statute books, let it remain, and enforce it as best it can be done.

The law is probably as well enforced in Iowa as the excise laws of Wisconsin are, or as any of the excise laws in any of the states. But because these laws pertaining to the selling of liquor and to gambling are not obeyed to the very letter, no decent man would approve of the repeal of the laws and try something worse.

One of the most shameful outrages committed in the regular army for years, was the trial and sentence of Private Dell M. Wild, at Fort Snelling. The brutality of the officers immediately connected with the affair, was not common, we are glad to say, in the regular army. Wild was court martialed and sentenced to prison for one year for simply standing up for his own manhood. When President Harrison heard the case, he quickly granted a pardon, and caused Secretary of War Proctor, to communicate the following to the commanding general:

No action appears to have been taken against Lieutenant Steele, whose breach of discipline was of an aggravated nature. It is also grossly improper that Lieutenant Steele should have been dealt with as Judge Advocate of the court. The president does not believe this case to be, nor does he think it just to the army that it should appear to be, a fair illustration of the administration of military justice.

It is said that Lieutenant Steele who is said that Lieutenant Steele who cursed Private Wild and used him as if he had no rights under the government, and then became judge advocate of the court which tried the private, will be court martialed himself by order of the president. This should be done, and done quickly. The government cannot afford to have in its service an officer so low in manhood as Lieutenant Steele.

Milwaukee and other papers have recently stated that Ogden H. Fethers, Esq., would probably be the next Congressman from this district. The Gazette is warranted in saying that these statements have been made without the knowledge or approval of Mr. Fethers, and that he is not a candidate for that or any other office. It would be a fortunate thing for this district if Mr. Fethers would be its representative in congress, for he is one of the ablest as well as one of the most practical men in regard to public affairs to be found in this state, but for himself personally he has in his profession a much better thing secured by his brain and energy, than any constituency can give him.

Now if some United States senator, with a nerve like Tom Reed, would tackle the secret sessions of the senate we might expect to see that relic of the last century wiped out. Circumlocution and secrecy must give way to expedition and publicity.—Minneapolis Tribune

The movement to wipe out this relic of the last century seemed to have been easily crippled. Four years ago it did seem as though the senate would, actually rise to the importance of the situation, and abolish them. But since then the grave has claimed some of the leaders in the good movement, and those living are not possessed of the spirit of reform in that direction.

The more intelligent people the more prosperous the republic.—Philadelphia Record.

This is a good confession for a democratic newspaper. Every word of those two lines is true. And the Record might have added the more intelligent people, the more school houses they build, the greater is the republican majorities. There is no exception to this rule in all the United States.

An intelligent person when hurt will at once procure a bottle of Salvation Oil. It is the best thing to cure swellings, burns or wounds. All druggists sell it at twenty-five cents a bottle.

DR. LORIMER'S QUEER FREAK.

The Great Preacher Attacks the Catholics and Lays It to Quinine.

HOLYOKE, Mass., Feb. 24.—The Second Baptist church yesterday held the biggest audience in its history. Everyone went to hear what explanation Dr. G. C. Lorimer of Chicago would make for his tirade against Catholicism Friday night. Several weeks ago Dr. Lorimer was announced to lecture in the Young Men's Christian association course at the opera house. It is the fashionable course of the season, and is attended by the best people of the city. Dr. Lorimer's subject was put down as "The French Revolution." The fame of the speaker proved an attraction and Friday evening the hall was filled.

No sooner had Dr. Lorimer risen to begin than people began to look at one another in astonishment. He began by explaining how great were the benefits that his hearers derived from the overthrow of the influence of priests during the French revolution. From this time he abandoned his subject and launched out upon a tirade against the Roman Catholic religion.

"Yes, I hate the Roman Catholic religion," said the speaker. "I detest it with all that is in me. From my roots and branches I abhor it. You know I am a Scotchman and was educated in America; therefore it is natural for me to detest the Catholic religion. Oh, I detest and hate that schism." The audience began to manifest displeasure at several persons left the hall. The speaker continued with renewed vehemence: "With its roots in Rome, surrounded by papal works, catholicism sends its branches out to poison and curse the world. Oh, oh! oh! how I do hate it!" More than half the audience had left at this point and few remained to hear the speaker through. He continued in the same strain to the end.

A reporter saw Dr. Lorimer the next morning. He was asked if his lecture was an arraignment of catholicism and replied that it was not and that he made no disrespect allusion to that religion.

He was not aware that his lecture had created any sensation, and denied that any delegation of citizens had asked of him an explanation. Later in the day a delegation from the Young Men's Christian association called upon him, and it was announced that Dr. Lorimer would speak of the matter from the pulpit of the Second Baptist church yesterday.

The church was crowded. In the pulpit beside Pastor Booth was Dr. Lorimer. After the opening exercises Dr. Booth arose. He said that he had a statement to make in regard to Dr. Lorimer's conduct on Friday night. Dr. Lorimer was on that occasion suffering from the effects of an overdose of quinine. He had been ill and had taken so much quinine that it had robbed him of his physical and mental powers. Dr. Lorimer then rose and said that Dr. Booth had truly explained the affair. No one regretted the whole matter more sincerely than he, and it afforded him pleasure thus publicly to apologize. He then announced his subject and preached a most brilliant sermon.

WANT TO BUY THE LEAGUE.

$1,000,000 Offered for the Franchise of the Ten Clubs.

NEW YORK, Feb. 24.—A new phase of the base-ball war was disclosed today, when it became known that a syndicate of capitalists had offered a cool $1,000,000 for the franchise of the ten clubs comprising the National league. It is not definitely announced whether the capitalists are, but it is widely believed that the men who made the offer for the league franchise are the backers of the brotherhood clubs and their friends, and their intention is, if the purchase be consummated to merge the rival leagues.

Organizing a Big Salt Company.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Feb. 24.—The United Salt company, with a capital of $1,000,000, filed articles of incorporation today. The company will have works here at New Portage, Summit county, and at Newburg, a Cleveland suburb. Wells have been sunk and large veins of rock salt have been found at a depth of 1,000 feet. Buildings have already been erected and operations will be commenced within a few weeks. The output of the three plants will be 5,000 barrels of refined salt per day.

Contested Election Cases.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—After the world's fair question has been disposed of the House will again turn its attention to the consideration of contested election cases, and the committee on elections will call up the West Virginia contest of Atkinson vs. Pendleton, and the Arkansas case, Featherston vs. Case, which will probably occupy most of the remainder of the week in their disposition. The committee on appropriations will report the urgent deficiency appropriation bill to the House Thursday.

Henry Villard's Plans.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Feb. 24.—It is reported that as soon as the lease is signed whereby the Northern Pacific gains control of the Wisconsin Central, Mr. Villard will commence operations to shorten the length of the latter line from the Twin Cities to Chicago by about sixty miles.

ANOTHER DAM BREAKS.

Forty People Drowned.—The Loss of Life and Property by Fire and Water.

TERRIBLE RESULT OF A BROKEN DAM DOWN IN ARIZONA.

Whole Families Swept Away by the Rushing Torrent of Water—Other Casualties.

PRESCOTT, Arizona, Feb. 24.—No definite news of the loss of life or the damage caused by the break Saturday in the Walnut Grove dam has yet reached this place. All that has been learned is that forty persons were drowned by the glacial way of the large storage dam built across Hassayampa river, the Walnut Storage Company. It is feared that disaster has visited Wickenburg, thirty miles below the dam, and that many lives have been lost.

Not the slightest doubt had been entertained of the safety of the dam, which formed a lake three miles long by three fourths of a mile wide and 110 feet deep. Miners had erected heavy along the stream, and these were lifted up by the waters and dashed to pieces. The first intimation of the disaster was a sound resembling thunder and at the same moment a perpendicular wall of water fifty feet high came rushing down the narrow valley. Heavy rains have fallen for several days and Friday night it was apparent that the water in the lake was approaching danger line.

Arthur Allen, formerly of Enterprise, and John McDonald, part owner of the Blue Deck mine, have just returned from the Dozoris divide, fourteen miles south of the town, from which a view of the dam could be had. The break in the stonework of the dam was plainly seen. It sloped to the eastward, giving the impression that the main break was on the east side.

No estimate can yet be made concerning the loss of life and property. The damage will reach into the millions, while the number of those who perished will, without doubt, be great, as many families were living in narrow canyons near the stream. Confirmation of the news of the occurrence has heightened the excitement, and more definite information is now anxiously awaited.

FRED WALTON CAUGHT.

THE PACIFIC EXPRESS COMPANY'S CLERK TAKEN IN.

He is Followed Two Thousand Miles—$10,000 of the Money Recovered.

St. John, N. B., Feb. 24.—Fred A. Walton, the $35,000 embezzler of Dallas, Texas, was captured here Saturday night. Walton was the money clerk for the Pacific Express company up to Sunday evening, Feb. 2, when he left Dallas with the company's funds. After a few days, the Pinkerton detective agency got on his track and pursued him 2,000 miles, with the result that the embezzler and $10,000 of the money are in the possession of the officers.

After leaving Dallas Walton was first heard of in St. Louis. Thence he was traced to Kansas City, where he bought a ticket for New York by way of the Missouri Pacific and Michigan Central railroads. He left the train at St. Thomas, Feb. 5 in the morning. He remained only a few hours, and then he returned on a train for Montreal with a ticket to that city. He got a stop-over ticket at Toronto and for a time all trace of him was lost, but a week later he was discovered in Montreal, where he arrived Feb. 12.

The thief fell into the hands of thieves and his arrest prevented the operation of a bunco scheme that would have taken him to the city of the robbers. At Montreal two gamblers named Brady and Laird got hold of Walton and the three were traced to New Brunswick, where they left the train at Montreal. Brady returned to Montreal last Friday and was arrested. On his person was found $3,000 of the company's money. Walton was overtaken here the next day, and with him was secured $7,000 more of the money. Laird is supposed to have another large sum, and every effort is being made to secure his arrest.

It is thought that Walton meant to take the money to Italy. The gamblers had conceived the trick of substituting a valise exactly resembling that carried by Walton, and which contained the stolen money, when he entered the steamer, and had they been successful Walton would have been as thoroughly victimized as was the express company.

Fred A. Walton is 24 years of age and is of a good character. His parents live in Detroit.

WILLIAM RUSHTON'S MAD ACT.

The Philadelphia Cashier Killed Himself Without Known Cause.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 24.—William Rushton, until very recently assistant cashier of the Farmers and Merchants' national bank, shot himself dead Saturday night in the house of Nellie Beach, at 405 North 13th street. He had previously shown symptoms of insanity.

The inmates of the house say that he came there about noon Saturday. At 10:30 o'clock a girl who went to call him heard several shots fired in rapid succession. When the police arrived the man was dead. But 45 minutes after the watch were found in his pockets. The man had apparently been drinking, as two bottles partly filled with whisky were found in his room.

A few weeks ago Rushton resigned his position as assistant cashier of the Farmers and Merchants' bank, with which institution he had been connected for some time. The officials refused to state the reasons which prompted this step. Rushton was very popular and had many friends in business and social circles.

The fact that Mrs. Livermore has lectured upwards of two thousand times in all parts of the country during the past twenty years, is sufficient proof of her popularity.

Messrs. H. Buchholz & Co., the enterprising carriage builders, shipped a laundry wagon to Aurora to-day. It was for Hill & Swartz and was an artistic piece of work.

Richard Malcolm Johnston has written another Okechese story. This time he addresses himself to juvenile readers, and calls it "The Quick Recovery of Mr. Nathan Swint." The story will appear in the number of Harper's Young People to be published February 25th.

Mr. George Osgood, of the firm of Tarrant & Osgood, returned last night from New Orleans where he has been rusticated for the past few days. He reports a great time and says that the procession in that city "was almost as large as some of the decoration days' parades in this city." He brought back several souvenirs of the Mardi Gras that are very handsome, being imported from Paris. George thinks that Louisiana is a great state but it can't beat Wisconsin.

It is evident that the editor of The Arena intends to keep his pledge of openness to all sides in the discussion of the great religious, social, ethical, and economic problems of the hour. The March number of The Arena will contain the first paper by the Rev. Geo. B. Cheever, D. Mr. Scott has a picture of his mother, taken in London in 1815, when she was twenty-three years of age. This picture is quite a curiosity, in that it was taken before the art of photography had been discovered, yet it is upon glass, the figure being etched. The picture can now be seen at Heilmann's drug store, North Main street. Mr. Scott has also an old receipt for subscription to the Weekly Gazette, dated Sept. 25th, 1856, and signed by Chas. Holt, the proprietor and editor of the Gazette.

IN MEMORIAM.

Faith C. Wilmarth. Died February 19. "Her youth gave promise of talents rare." They said as they smoothed her shining hair. But now the light of her life is hid. Cold lies the soul on her coffin lid.

White as the snow was her face to fair. Cold as the snow was her still heart there. Snow white the petals that lay on her breast. Silent her heart throbs in peaceful rest.

A dreamless slumber, peaceful bliss. What hopes for mortals so sweet as this? Beyond the toiling and weary pain. The world's rude jostle, the strife for gain?

Beyond the fever and sad unrest. Her feet to weary have ended their quest. When morning brightened the rosate skies She awakened in heaven with glad surprise.

The summons came, and her work was done. Was her life in vain? Ask the loving ones. Who with bitter tears, bent low above. Her dear dead face in sorrowing love.

She scattered around her pearls of price. Gems of sweet influence, self-sacrifice. In our hearts she lives, her brighten and glow. As flower gems quiver with life's death the snow.

The loving brother will turn apart. To you lonely grave with a grieving heart. He will miss her sweet face by the fire-side. In the silent hours of the eventide.

He will long for her love and tender care. And the clinging touch of her shining hair. But through the cloud rifts, there shines a star. His angel guide left the gates ajar.

White as the snow was her face so fair. Cold as the snow was her still heart there. But over her forehead, around, above. An unseen Presence of infinite love.

A veil of darkness had fallen between. And hidden from mortals the glittering sheen. Of waiting angels as fluttering down. They placed on her peaceful brow a crown.

WILL PLAY ITSELF.

A New Pack of Cards that is Now on the Market.

It will probably prove a piece of news to a great many people interested in the art of playing whist, that a pack of cards has at length been placed on the market that will actually play itself. The system has been so thoroughly arranged that no mistakes are made. The cards are played face down and are not exposed as in the old fashioned manner of playing whist. There are 100 different hands or combinations in this pack of cards, each one of which represents some special play. For instance; game one, shows how to avoid charging suits; game three, forced leads from small suits; game four, winning partner's trick to lead the lead; game eight, when to lead trump, game forty, underplay, etc. If therefore a player is weak upon any one of the many plays or combinations possible by this wonderful arrangement of the cards, all that is necessary for him to do is to strengthen himself in such a play is to practice at it per instructions given, which will soon make him familiar with the points most needed.

WILL USE TENTS.

The Way to Economize in Election Expenses.

In some precincts of Oshkosh it will be impossible to obtain the use of a room that can be arranged in the proper manner. Accordingly the mayor suggests that the voting be done in tents, made especially for that purpose. The size of the room inclosed will be 12x16 feet. These tents can be used for the same purpose for years; while if the polling places were constructed of wood, they would have to be replaced every year as their is no place to store them, and they would be unprotected from depredation and ravages of the weather. As the law is a new one and its conditions are not familiar to the public or the officers, it will take some little time to make all arrangements; but the city officials expect to have every thing in readiness by March 1st.

THE WISCONSIN EDITORS.

Their Opinion of the Bower City and the Hospitality of the People.

COMPLIMENTS FOR JANSVILLE'S LADY DANCERS.

Incidents Connected with the Late Convention of the Press Gang in Jansville.

[From the Oshkosh Northwestern.]

Any mention of the winter meeting of the Wisconsin Press Association just closed at Jansville, would be discontinuously incomplete without a brief reference to the hospitable manner in which the people of Jansville entertained the visiting editors of the state and the efforts put forth to make their short stay in the city both enjoyable and instructive. Jansville possesses not only the attraction of fine and metropolitan buildings, in which particular it far outstrips Oshkosh, but it possesses a genial, wide awake and sociable class of people apparently democratic in their ideas and exhibiting no self assumed notions of aristocracy. The Business Men's Association rooms were entirely given up to the temporary use of the editors who held their daily sessions in them, and the armory, a large and pleasant hall, was placed at their disposal for the evening gatherings in which the residents joined in complimentary numbers. This hall was elegantly decorated with bunting and flags, the flags covering the entire ceiling, while potted plants gave a cheerful aspect to the platform. On the evening night of the convention, after the welcoming speeches and the responses and the president's address had been delivered and Mrs. Day, a most charming elocutionist of Jansville, had favored the large audience with two admirable selections, the chairs were cleared from the smoothly canvassed floor and dancing began. The floor was soon crowded with Jansville's most prominent society people and visitors of the occasion whirling in ecstatic mazurkas of the waltz. Lemonade was served by an attendant in one corner and cigars by another in the gentlemen's ante room. In fact nothing was omitted to make the ball a complete social success. The people of Oshkosh may pride themselves on their terseness accomplishments, but it is no flattery to say that for grace of figure and artistic motion the dancers of Jansville, and especially the ladies, take the palm. The accomplishment seems universal. It was remarked in explanation that dancing is the chief social amusement of the city. The ball lasted until two o'clock in the morning, although many withdrew on account of Lent.

For the next day, entertainment of another character had been arranged. This included an exhibition of the fire department in the course of which a newly purchased life-saving ladder truck was experimented with for the first time in rescuing a man from the roof of the Grand hotel. Next followed the horse show. Jansville prides itself somewhat upon its industry in horse-flesh, and several large importers and breeders are located in that city and suburbs. For about three-quarters of an hour the cavalcade of horses, varying from the caryatids hitched to miniature dog carts to elephantine Norman and Percheron imported stallions
